Divorced Men and Actors Barred

New Jersey Girl Must Not Marry Either in Order to Get Her Grandmother's Legacy of $200,000.

New York, Sept. 21.—The will of Mrs. Ellen M. Hennessy, mother of Mrs. J. Hennessy, a former assistant district attorney, and wife of the late Fire Commissioner James S. Hennessy, who died at her country home at North Asbury Park, N. J., on Sept. 15, was filed for probate yesterday. It leaves one-third of the residue of her estate to her granddaughter, Catherine Bradley Bigelow, on condition that she does not marry an actor or divorced man. The granddaughter is now about ten years old.

The entire estate is valued at upward of $200,000. The two other residuary legatees are Mrs. J. Hennessy, who married Margaret Sheehan, daughter of John C. Sheehan, Oct. 22 last, and his sister, Ellen Priscilla Parker. Mrs. Hennessy disposes by her will of nearly every household article owned by her, except those of most minute value and importance, dividing them about equally between her son and daughter.

The will, which was drawn on June 2 last, makes provision for the granddaughter, whose mother is dead, in these words:

"I desire that my granddaughter at no time shall marry a divorced man or an actor. In case this provision of this will should be broken by my said granddaughter she shall thereby forfeit all interest in my estate, real or personal, and her share thus forfeited shall go to my son, James J. Hennessy, and by daughter, Ellen Priscilla Parker.

"I desire that the said granddaughter shall always be provided with a maid or chaperon when traveling who shall be a person of education and refinement, the expense for which shall be provided out of her surplus income, but must not amount to over $75 a month."

Mrs. Hennessy stipulated that the executor, who are her son and daughter and Michael Conlon, shall pay to her granddaughter, $1,000 a year until she is 12 years old, $1,200 until she is 15, $1,500 until she is 18, $2,000 until she is 21 and her full income until she is 25, when she is to have the principal.

The testator leaves $1,000 to the College of St. Francis Xavier to found the Catherine Bradley scholarship in memory of her mother and $1,000 to St. Francis Xavier's church. She gives $500 to St. Francis hospital in Fifth Avenue and $250 to the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. The rector of St. Francis Xavier's church receives $500 for masses for the testator and $1,000 for masses for departed members of her family.

Mrs. Hennessy leaves $150 to Lizzie Cribb, a servant, in "recognition of faithful service for many years," and gives $100 each to Mary Flynn, her cook, and Michael Hines, her coachman.

The rector of St. Francis Xavier's church also receives $500 for the parochial school, and St. Joseph's Catholic seminary at Dunwoodie gets $1,000. She gives $500 to the Sacred Heart convent in the Bronx and $200 to the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Lt. J. Hennessy receives the picture of his father in a fireman's uniform and the certificate of his father's appointment to be fire commissioner.

CLEVELAND GIRLS.

May Attend Westover School at Middlebury.

Waterbury had a visit on Saturday from Mrs. Grover Cleveland, widow of ex-President Cleveland. She came over from Middlebury, having called at the Westover school, where she is thinking of sending her daughters Esther and Marion. Her daughters were with her, also her son, Richard Folsom Cleveland. The party traveled in a touring car and left the Elton for Princeton, Mrs. Cleveland, who is 72 in the best of health, said she was enjoying her trip immensely and was much impressed with the scenery in Connecticut. She stated that she was undecided as yet whether she would send her daughters to the Westover school, but had the matter under consideration. The daughters are very attractive looking girls.

FOOT GUARD NOT EXEMPT.

This Historic Militia Company Is Not a Part of the National Guard.

State Tax Commissioner W. H. Corbin and Adj. Gen. G. M. Cole Monday ruled that the Governor's Foot Guard, which has existed since 1775, when one company was commanded by Benedict Arnold, and the Governor's Horse Guard, are not a part of the national guard of Connecticut, and therefore the members cannot be exempted from paying the state military tax. Collectors of taxes in Hartford raised the question, although relief has come in abolition of the tax by act of the last general assembly. Recently Judge Simpson of the court of common pleas at New Haven decided that members of the Foot Guards cannot be exempted from jury duty as they are not soldiers within the meaning of the law. On parade and at their social events the guardsmen in their continental uniforms are comrades of other noted veteran organizations of the country, especially the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston and the Old Guard of New York.

MEMORIAL ORGAN.

Dedicated at Grace Episcopal Church, Hamden, by Bishop Brewster.

Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster Sunday afternoon dedicated a new organ at Grace P. E. church at Hamden. The organ, which is dedicated to the memory of the Rev. and Mrs. William Everest and to Mrs. Manger Brewster, cost $1,500, and is a tubular pneumatic two manual.

Rev. Mr. Everest was at one time rector of the church and the head master of the rectorial school in Hamden. Friends of the Everests were interested in the project found difficulty in completing the fund and then at the suggestion of friends of the Brewsters it was decided to make the organ a memorial to Mrs. Brewster as well as to the Everests. Mrs. Brewster was the wife of William Brewster, a well known carriage manufacturer of New York, and cousin of Bishop Brewster. The Brewsters own a large country estate in Hamden called Edgemoor, where they spend their summers. The family were very generous to Grace church and donated the present parish house.

FLOWER DAY

How It Is Observed in East Haven.

The East Haven correspondent of The Journal-Courier wrote on Tuesday:

Flower day will be observed this morning at the town hall by the members of the Woman's club. The children will bring bouquets from the home gardens at 8 o'clock, leaving them at the hall, receiving a card on which is a printed number, a corresponding number being placed upon their bouquet. When all are in the judges will inspect the flowers and after deciding upon the best in point of coloring, perfect flowers, size, etc., the number will be given to the president, who will take it to the school, and the child who has the corresponding number will be given honorable mention, thus giving each one an equal and fair chance. The giving of prizes was abandoned about two years ago, and the present system has been equally as successful. The flowers are later taken to the sick about town and the remaining bouquets are carried to the New Haven hospitals.

Miss Poli's Success.

Following the hit she made on her debut as an opera singer in New Haven a little over a year ago, Miss Lillian Poli, a niece of Sylvester Z. Poli, is scoring a success and receiving flattering notices in her part in "The Chocolate Soldier," which opened at the Lyric theater in New York last week. The opera was tried out in Philadelphia several weeks ago, and immediately took, and in the reviews given by the press of that city, Miss Poli was flatteringly commended.

D. A. R. Ceremonial at New Britain. The exercises in connection with the completion of the restoration of the Christian Lane cemetery, where repose the bodies of the pioneers who came from Farmington and founded the Great Swamp settlement, whence spring Berlin and New Britain, were held Monday afternoon at the cemetery under the auspices of the Emma Hart Willard chapter of the D. A. R. of New Britain.

CHURCH FUNDS SAFE.

$15,000 of Christ Episcopal Church of Guilford Found Intact.

The trouble in Guilford with the former town treasurer, George S. Davis, has caused not a little alarm among the members of Christ Episcopal church of Guilford, of which Davis was treasurer.

It was rumored that Davis, whose town books show a shortage of over $10,000, was guilty of using some of the church money. This is denied by E. F. Bishop of Guilford and by Frederick C. Spencer, the present treasurer of the church. They say that a fund of $15,000 belonging to the church was found intact and that all the church books balance.

Massachusetts and McKees Rocks.

From scenes of such peaceful combat as the invasion of Massachusetts with rattling musketry and booming battery, we have turned our gaze to the real war now being waged in and about McKees Rocks between the Pennsylvania state constabulary and the striking employees of the Pressed Steel Car company. Already the list of dead numbers several, and already one of the riots, or rather battles, has been christened "the fight at Bloody Corner." How many men have been wounded is not yet known, but presumably the total is large, for the mounted troopers of the state constabulary have held hard to their reputation as fierce fighters. On the mining country of Pennsylvania a squad of these riders, most of whom are army veterans, is feared more by the unruly ones than six platoons of regular police. Being, most of them, picked men from every part of the country, the troopers have no fraternal feeling for strikers or anyone else, such as a New York militiaman might harbor for a rioter in his own state. If the Seventh regiment of Squadron A were lined up against opponents like the McKees Rocks strikers, probably complaints about the commissary service and the cost of food would be forgotten in the busy, busy work at hand.
